Ongoing Restoration

The restoration of Old Mackinac Point Lighthouse has been ongoing since 1999. Numerous projects have been undertaken to restore the house to its original luster, including major restoration of the brickwork on the exterior of the building. In 2020 the second floor of the house was opened to the public for the first time in its history, and for 2023 an oil house will be added to the grounds, furthering the 1910 look of the station.

A point in the storm and a guiding beacon since 1889, Old Mackinac Point Lighthouse helped passing ships navigate through the treacherous waters of the Straits of Mackinac. Authentically restored quarters and exhibits, including the original lens, a film, Shipwrecks of the Straits, and the Straits of Mackinac Shipwreck Museum, make this "Castle of the Straits" a true gem of the Great Lakes. The Keepers' Quarters contains three rooms restored to their 1910 appearance, a gallery exhibit on the history of the lighthouse, an exhibit focusing on the science and technology of lighthouses featuring interactive elements, and the restored second floor with an exhibit showcasing the life of the Marshall family, the house's first residents. .
